

Bio of Randy Koch-Club Officer

Randy Koch holds a very special and key spot within the Lanier Crappie Anglers Club and that position is that of the Challenge Director. Each month Randy is organizing and directing the monthly fishing challenges that continually measure the skill and abilities of all club member anglers that participate in the event. Randy is actually by trade an Electrical Contractor, holding an Electrical Masters License in the profession. He also is a real estate agent in that he also holds a Georgia Real Estate License. Randy joined the Lanier crappie Anglers Club 2 years ago to learn more about crappie fishing on Lanier and says that fishing is his only hobby other than enjoying rock and country music during his down time. Not that Randy continually has down time as he states he is an avid expert at “fixing things at the house for his wife” so we are sure she keeps him busy! Randy lives in Gainesville, GA with his wife and son, Zachary who he is teaching the arts of being angler. Randy has one other son Cameron but says he is out of the house now and on his own. .Randy is originally is from Tallula, IL and his biggest catch to date is a whopping 25lb catfish. Randy says joy will come to his house in the spring when he will become a first time grandfather!
